GETS ASHES OF DEAD SISTER.

California Man Shocked By Mysterious Express Package.

San Francisco, Jan. 1.—Matthias Buchtmann of Alameda a few days ago received a package from New York by express and supposed it was a Christmas gift. He was considerably surprised to find that it contained a copper can, but with no syllable to denote its contents. When he cut the can open he found that it contained a quantity of ashes and bits of charred bone. He racked his brain to determine what the mysterious package could mean, but was unable to solve the mystery, and finally laid the package away, confident that some solution would be found.

He thought possibly he had been the victim of a joke, but a few days ago the solution came in the shape of a letter which to his amazement and grief stated that his sister who had lived in New York had died after a brief illness, and had expressed a desire that her body be cremated and her ashes sent to her brother in this city, to be by him placed in the Old Fellows' cemetery, by the side of those of their mother.

Buchtmann at once complied with his dead sister's wish.

DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 1.—The steamer Danube brings news that on December 18 there had been five deaths in a week at Dawson from pneumonia, and the people are greatly worked up. The epidemic of typhoid was subsiding. Smallpox had almost disappeared, and there was but two cases in the district. Five thousand vaccine points reached Dawson on December 18 and compulsory vaccination was immediately started.

It is reported that discoveries of rich quartz mines have been made on Bonanza creek and elsewhere in the Klondike district. Many samples assay more than $50 to the ton. None go less than $10, and one went $36.

Six automobiles have reached Dawson and will be used on runs to the creek.

"WHOSE BABY ARE YOU?"

Among the prominent engagements of the Dorris theater, Friday, January 4, will be the much heralded farce,

"Whose Baby Are You?" which will make its initial appearance in this city on Friday evening. Considerable interest is manifested in the approaching event by all lovers of good, clean amusement, for this farce is of a high-class order, with just enough "horse-play" to strike a proper balance to please both parrot and gallery. The author of the piece is Mark R. Swan, who wrote "Downy" in Town," but this, his latest effort, is generally conceded to be the funniest farce on the stage this season. It is not a hodge-podge of nonsense cooked up for an evening's entertainment. Manager Murphy has given the piece a pretty scenic investiture, while the costumes are lavish in the extreme. The cast includes such high-salaried people as those clever comedians, Lew H. Newcomb, Fred G. Hearn, Fred H. Burnside, Roy Foster and Miss Mabel Meredith, Miss Frankie Gale, Miss Dorothy Drane, Miss Alice Williams and others. This happy farce has produced more laughter than any play on the road this season.
